Jonathan Evans (he/him) is the Program Manager and Senior Facilitator for the Civilian Services Acquisition Workshops (CSAWs) Program within GSA's Direct Client Support Division. The CSAW Program is designed to maximize Performance-Based Acquisition (PBA) across government through the delivery of CSAWs - a facilitated requirements development workshop built around a specific acquisition and its multi-functional integrated project/procurement team (IPT). The workshop facilitates the team through the PBA process from beginning to end. Since 2019, Jonathan has effectively facilitated over 40 workshops and affected well over $35 billion in estimated spend.

As an acquisition professional and former 1102, Jonathan manages the government-wide playbook for PBA, called the Steps to Performance-Based Acquisition (SPBA), on buy.gsa.gov/spba. He regularly researches acquisition innovations and applications of PBA in order to effectively coach and mentor acquisition teams to grow their PBA maturity.

As a facilitator, Jonathan has facilitated large and small group sessions on a variety of topics, including: requirements development, acquisition strategy and planning, project planning, strategic planning, human capital strategic planning, organizational culture and values, employee engagement, customer and industry engagement strategy, and team building.

Jonathan has Bachelor's degrees in Economics and Leadership Development from the University of Washington and maintains a FAC-C and FAC-COR certifications, as well as a Master Business Analyst Certification from George Washington University. He received a Master Human Capital Strategist Certification from the Human Capital Institute and has received advanced training and coaching in facilitation from Leadership Strategies, Inc.
